

Domagoj Šarić

With professional engineering experience and more than 20 years in business as a project manager, mid- and C-level executive in several industries, gained valuable skills such as strategic communication, team leadership, industry analysis, business development, systems thinking and innovation management. Over the past 5 years, has been engaged in regional and national strategic projects and analysis of Smart Specialisation Strategies (S3) and in diagnosing opportunities to participate in global value chains in terms of developing the competitiveness of clusters and industrial niches through public and private initiatives.